Wainwright Sports Is Outstanding Success

What may be safely termed the best sports day for many years took place at Wainwright on the new sports grounds at the P.M.C. Arena.

Favored by fine weather, a very good crowd turned out, and enjoyed a day of really fine ball, which was highlighted by the appearance of "The King and His Court," the famous four-man softball team.

While senior baseball might be considered the leading item of the day, the many softball games also drew a tremendous amount of interest, and made the afternoon one to be remembered.

Five teams joined in the contest for the baseball crown, and after the last ball had been thrown it was found that Wainwright had come out as winners after two games that, while they were both quite decisive wins for the locals, were close enough to make them put forward their best efforts.

In the other first bracket game the boys from Chauvin bowled over the Irons team to the score of 14-5. From there Chauvin went on to meet Edgerton which had drawn the 1-0 win. This game was somewhat of a washout, being stopped in the top half of the fifth when Chauvin had scored 10 runs to Edgerton's none.

The final game, as said before, was another bit of hot baseball. The visitors and the locals both exhibited a fine brand of ball, and the crowd thrilled at the fought out battle to the last pitch. To Lefty Hillard, the star of credit for the final win, with the score 6-4 in favor of the locals.

Another Wainwright player who was started out for credit was the young shortstop, Vance, and in the Chauvin team much praise is due to the young pitching staff, who showed up very well.

Players for Wainwright were: W. Murray, H. Venn, A. Hillard, J. Buckley, Stan Smith, Don Goodwin, Billy Mallin, P. Horn and J. Alloway.

Captain handled by Ken Howell and cheered by E. Murray of the local Mitchell, the baseball program went off very nicely.

Twelve teams contested the Men's Softball tournament, which under the able direction of James Hunting and Stan Ryan was run off in a very capable fashion.

Real good play featured many of the games, and quite a lot of credit goes to the men who umpired the games. Gene Grogan, Jim Humphries, Cliff Ringwood, Roy Findlay, Les Tindall, G. C. Welch, Ernie Nelson and Gerry Ralston.

The first draw saw Silgo defeat Irnace; Metropolitain defeat Tolland; Metropolitain defeat Hope Valley; McCafferty defeat C.N.R. First Rink; C.Y. defeat C.N.R. Second Rink; C.Y. defeat the Army.

In the second bracket Irnace defeated Silgo; Metropolitain defeated McCafferty; and Gilt Edge defeated the Gilt Edge. The win by Gilt Edge and Metro scored another win to come out into the final.

The final game, Metropolitain's fourth for the day, exhibited a really fine brand of softball. Both teams were on their toes, and despite the fact that the Metro had just had no rest since their semi-final game, they managed to squeeze out Gilt Edge with a 3-2 score in their favor.

Eight teams contested the honors in the ladies softball, which was under the direction of Eddie Walker.

Five ball and excellent arrangement also featured this tournament. In the first bracket Wainwright Ladies defeated C.T.O. Wainwright L.S. won over Edgerton H.S. by default, Irnace won over Buffalo Coulee by default and Silgo took Chauvin. In the second bracket Wainwright Ladies defeated Wainwright High School and Irnace defeated Silgo.

Buffalo Park Lodge No. 44 Installs Officers

Installation ceremonies were held at Buffalo Park Lodge No. 44, A.F. and A.M. on Monday, June 26th.

With W. W. Bro. Bryce-Jones of Irnace acting as installing master and assisted by other Irnace and local brethren, the program went off very nicely.

The new slate of officers for the local lodge are: P.M.—Bro. H. E. Buckle, W.M.—Bro. J. L. Mitchell, S.W.—Bro. L. L. Barlow, J.W.—Bro. H. P. Karr, Treasurer—Bro. D. P. Fawcay, Secretary—Bro. W. R. Hume, Organist—Bro. O. Griffiths, Chaplain—Bro. J. Kelly, E.D.—Bro. R. Mulvey, J.D.—Bro. J. B. Robblee, Steward—Bro. C. Madill, Steward—Bro. S. Simpson, D. of C.—Bro. J. Davidson.

Following the installation ceremony a sumptuous banquet was served, which had been prepared under the direction of J.W. Bro. L. L. Barlow. This was much enjoyed by all, as also were the various fine talks given by various brethren.

The recollection goes further in that the Grand played against a girls team from Hardisty. During the exhibition and while the world famous MacKenzie's and Delaney's and Benny's were playing in earnest, an obscure kid from Hardisty scored a beautiful field goal. The Grand awarded around and congratulated the young star.

In the softball exhibition, the "King" Feigler stated he was going to pitch as if he was playing a top rate team. It was a battle all the way through. The game featured fine ball, and wound up with only two runs having been scored—giving Wainwright the win with the 2-0 score.

The local committee are high in their praise of Ribstone team for its fine play in this game.

In the other first bracket game the boys from Chauvin bowled over the Irons team to the score of 14-5. From there Chauvin went on to meet Edgerton which had drawn the 1-0 win. This game was somewhat of a washout, being stopped in the top half of the fifth when Chauvin had scored 10 runs to Edgerton's none.

SUFFERED DEATH OF Mrs. E. AVISON SATURDAY EVEN'G

It was indeed a severe shock to the people of the town and district when the word was passed around of the sudden and sad death of one of the pioneers of the district in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Avison. Mrs. Avison had been working in the United Church W.A. booth at the P.M.C. Arena for the annual July 1st celebration throughout the day. Perhaps the heat of the day and the strenuousness of her duties in the kitchen contributed to her sudden death, of this we cannot say.

The rush was over, and things were being cleared up, when she fell to the floor. Medical aid was summoned by the P.A. system, but nothing could be done to save her life, and she passed away at about 1 p.m.

Mrs. Avison was a woman of fine character, a faithful friend, and a tireless worker for the community. Her family will be sorely missed, and the sympathy of the district is extended to her husband and son in their bereavement.

Mrs. Avison moved from Tottenham, Ont. to Edmonton in the year 1918. In 1919 she married W. Avison; then in 1921 they moved to the Wainwright district north of Health. Later moving into town in 1944.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loving husband, and son Vernon who lives on the farm.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday, July 5th at 2:30 p.m. at Grace United Church with Rev. Dobson officiating.

The interment will be in the Wainwright Cemetery with McLeod's Funeral Parlors in charge.

DIXON-ROONEY WEDDING AT EDMONTON

St. James Baptist Church in Edmonton was the scene of a beautiful double ring ceremony in which Miss Margaret Ruth Rooney, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rooney of Edmonton, became the bride of Dr. Allen E. Dixon, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dixon of Wainwright.

Pink carnations, gladioli and peonies decorated the church as Rev. W. A. Airbome united the couple in marriage.

The bride wore white silk and lace and her wedding dress. Her finger tip was of nylon tulle caught to her head with a coronet of rose buds and she carried a white Testament entwined with red roses. Only just level of a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Miss Pauline Dixon, sister of the groom was bridesmaid wearing a gown of white tulle. She wore a chapel veil caught to her head with a coronet of rose buds and carried a coronet bouquet in matching tones.

The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a boutonniere of white roses. Mr. Henry Russo and Dr. Jerry Evans Miss Phyllis Thompson had charge of the music.

Mrs. N. D. Allison played the wedding music and soloist Miss Myers sang "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the Royal Alexandra Hospital School of Nursing in Edmonton.

The bride chose a light grey with white tulle accessories for traveling. Dr. and Mrs. Dixon left by motor for a honeymoon enroute to Vancouver where they will make their home.

A four-tiered wedding cake and bouquets of sweet peas and pink carnations decorated the bride's table. Mrs. M. Russo presided at the head of the table.

Good Attendance At F.U.A. Convention Here

One hundred and twenty-two registered delegates and about thirty visitors gathered at the Masonic Hall here Tuesday morning for the opening session of the convention of F.U.A. District No. 7.

First business of the day was the election of convention chairman, and three were chosen, to take place at the office; these were: J. Jackson, Geo. Tindall and E. R. Taylor.

Mrs. D. Burnett was chosen as secretary, and the meeting was presided over by Mr. B. Balgater as her assistant.

The following committees were then named: Order of business: Geo. Tindall, R. Garneau, O. H. Quinn.

Resolutions Committee: Mrs. W. C. Taylor, Perry Richardson, G. T. Scott, A. Jurak and Mrs. Paul Bell.

Upholding Committee: H. Ruste, Mr. Bruce Gordon.

Credentials Committee: Mrs. G. Tindall and Mrs. P. M. Ford.

First business of the day was the reading and discussion of the financial statement.

E. P. Taylor, president of the Assoc., then gave his presidential address.

Mr. Taylor in his remarks referred to the work done by the Board during the past year. The report consisted mainly of developing the organization and increasing the membership.

During that time he had attended six public meetings and two barn hops, and the session would prove profitable in executive meetings and attending the annual convention at Calgary.

Briefly outlining some of the resolutions which were stated for the day's discussion, he said that one of the most important of these was that dealing with the petition being circulated asking that the final payment by the Wheat Board be established at a figure that would bring the total price up to $3.00 per bushel.

He criticized the Provincial F.U.A. boards, for their lack of aggressiveness in this regard, and also stated that the Board had been lax in presenting their case regarding the present initial price of wheat.

Stressing the need for international unity, a resolution was passed which urged that Canada accept a permanent role in any kind of currency. Only by doing so, he pointed out, can we overcome the shortage of American dollars that is so threatening our overseas trade.

The afternoon session opened with a few words of welcome by the Mayor of Wainwright, followed by J. Deane, who acted as guest speaker for the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. Both these men expressed a sincere welcome to the delegates and said that the session would prove profitable.

Mrs. Susan B. Gunn, provincial president of the F.U.A., then spoke briefly, expressing her welcome to the delegates, and giving an account of some of the activities of the F.U.A. Mrs. Armstrong, vice-president of the F.U.A., then took the platform and gave an interesting address on organization, and giving an account of some of the activities of the F.U.A.

GRADE VIII STUDENTS MAKE TRIP TO CITY

A class of seventeen grade VIII students from Wainwright had the time of their lives on Friday, June 23rd when they made a trip to Edmonton by bus and a tour of the city. The trip was financed through the sale of chocolate milk to the school students.

The group made an early start from Wainwright, boarding the bus which was driven by Wally Rattray at 6:15 a.m.

They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. J. A. Armstrong and Miss L. Bloom. Lyle Adams, principal of the public school had intended to conduct the tour, but was confined to hospital at the time.

The group arrived at the University of Alberta grounds at 10:30 a.m. and from 10:30 to 12:00 visited various points of interest around that institution, including the museum. They then visited the new basketball auditorium that is being constructed, and generally spent an enjoyable hour and a half.

They then returned to the University of Alberta grounds, and following the repeat spent the next hour in shopping.

From two to three they were the guests of the Edmonton Journal, and made a tour of the plant. They inspected the composing room, the stereo room and later the mailing room and the newsroom.

Watching the presses run they were astonished at the speed and incidentally the noise in the pressroom.

The next item on the agenda was a trip to the Parliament Buildings where the rounds were made and the museum given the once over.

Then followed a brief visit to the Board of Trade, where they watched the milk being bottled for city consumption, and more tantalizing, saw ice cream and vanilla in the process of manufacture. While in the mood they were treated to cereals and diets cups by the dairy.

Then followed a tour of the city in the school bus, a tour which took in many points of interest, including the Edmonton Airport.

Dinner was enjoyed picnic style at Borden Park, where the young folks took in the game and enjoyed the cool comfort of the swimming pool.

Leaving for home at 8:00 they arrived at destination at 1:45 a.m., very tired and very happy.

Canada, flexing her racket arm, meets Australia July 14-16 in the North American Davis Cup zone tie at Montreal. As the stakes are prohibitive favorites to take the honours, this country's chances have never been brighter.

Canada has tangled with Australia five times since 1914 in Davis Cup play and on all but one occasion, last year, net stars from down under have swept to victory with one loss of a match.

Last year, husky Brendan Maclean of Montreal swelled Canada's hopes with an upset victory in the first match over Bill Reid in a grueling three-hour net classic.

Additional Locals

Mr. C. Cromie is now in Edmonton attending summer school. Last year he was released for this year's squad, but he has decided not to play Davis Cup tennis this year.

On past performance, Canada would score the upset in a Vancouver match with a win over Australia. But if ex-perience in Cup play means anything, this country's show this year should be better than it has ever been.

WHAT IS A SUCCESSFUL SPORTS?

Wainwright has just staged one of the most successful sports days the district has enjoyed for a number of years. The committees in charge, and those who attended are generally pleased with the day, and the kicks, of which there must always be a few, are neither violent nor of a serious nature.

In view of the present flush of satisfaction, we felt that it might be high time we assessed what may be considered the measure of a sports day's success. Of course, from the point of view of the committee in charge the dollar mark looms large, and they may have a tendency to measure the success of the day largely by the net balance left over after all expenses have been paid. This is a very important angle and one that must be given a considerable amount of consideration, but it's not "the" angle in our minds. The cash balance left over at the end of this year's sports, or last year's, or any other year's is not really an accurate measure of success at all—at least not of the success of the day. It may be a measure of the success of the advertising, or the preparation of a program which proved attractive—but not of the day. The success of this year's sports must be measured by the number of people who are satisfied that they have gotten their 50 cents' worth and have made up their minds that they will come back next year for more.

Sports in general are not designed as a money-making project... they are designed merely as an entertainment feature. The committees in charge do not expect any personal cash rewards for their efforts, nor do they have any great desire to build up substantial cash reserves. All they want and expect is that they build up a sufficient reserve to help defray expenses incurred in case of a rained out sports in the future, and a sufficient backing that they will be able to put on a better program each year.

We feel that Wainwright has pulled out of the hole into which their sports had rested for the past few years, and that, given a little vision on the part of the committee in charge, future sports days here should be increasingly attractive.

After all, there are enough people in the district to support and promote a very lively sports day, a day that will really give value for the price of admission.

The new grounds served nicely, thanks to the intensive efforts of a number of townspeople, including Kenn Tory. However, the public must realize that preparations had to be made hurriedly, and be lenient with such matters as the terrible jumble of inextricable cars, which will not be in evidence when parking is arranged for next year. A race track may come too, for there were quite a number who expressed their disappointment over the absence of horse racing.

THE REAL TEST

The story of democracies burying their heads in the sand when danger appears may not be true... but over the years we have become pretty well convinced that this is most certainly true with human beings... and when they come up not only are their eyes full of sand, but there's a very bare patch behind that used to boast pretty smart features.

Most of the "democracies" have been good hard buried, with Uncle Sam away out in the lead. It took submarine warfare to pull his head out of the sand in the first great war, and Pearl Harbour in the second.

We are still quite convinced that the second world war could have been prevented, postponed indefinitely or won more quickly had the democracies gone all out before the war actually started... not by striking first, but definitely by being ready to accept the challenge in a quick and decisive manner when it was issued.

Prompt action on the part of the defenders can hardly be harmful. Prompt action must and is apparently being taken in the case of Korea. We believe that this will not make for more war but for less, for we do not believe that Korea is the real issue at stake. Korea just happens to be the place chosen to bring the issue to a head.

SPEAKING OF MONOPOLIES, WHAT ABOUT CEMENT?

In recent months much has been said and written about monopolies, and many prosecutions have taken place or are slated for the near future. An irate farmer friend of ours writes to know: "What about cement—is that monopoly or is it?" Frankly, we don't know. We suppose that, in the sense that one company manufactures all the cement used in these here parts, it is a monopoly beyond doubt. However, we're not entirely satisfied with the definition; knowing less about cement manufacture than we do about the Einstein theory, we can yet well imagine that it requires a tremendous investment to get into the business. It may well be that while there is too much business for present productive capacity (an assertion which can scarcely be denied) they are not sufficient to warrant entry of another firm into the field not to warrant unlimited expansion of the one company now functioning. It may be that the situation would warrant some investigation by the powers that be, but while the present situation is definitely unsatisfactory, we doubt that it constitutes a monopoly in restraint of trade in the ordinarily understood use of that phrase. The Leduc Representative.

Labour Discovers Pensions

The assumption that all advances made by the worker have resulted from the militant activities of organized labor is one that has been carefully cultivated. In recent discussions it has been made to appear that pensions for older workers are a concession reluctantly made by management. The facts are quite to the contrary. The idea of industrial pensions was not wrung from unsympathetic employers but rather originated with them, as a matter of sound business policy. Indeed, for years, labor was quite indifferent to the suggestion. To give pensions to older workers was at first too distant and impractical to have very much appeal for the average employee.

There were sound reasons why too pension idea was favored by employers. Some of these were outlined by Mr. E. Folson, treasurer and director of the Eastman Kodak Company, in a recent address to industry. Mr. Folson pointed out that as industries grew in age, employees tended to age with them. That posed a management problem of how to deal with older workers. There were three courses; to keep the employees on the payroll for life, which involved reduced efficiency in operation while it imposed a charge that did not appear as pensions but was part of general costs. Or management could release the worker and forget about him. Such a course reacted against the standing of the business in the community, and on the morale of its workers. There remained the third, adopted by thousands of industries without any suggestion of compulsion from labor—pension plans adapted to the needs of the older worker and the ability of the industry to provide for them.

Labor's interest in pensions began as the rise in living costs began to taper off, and with this the justification for recurring wage demands. It needed a new fighting policy and found it in pensions, and quickly seized the idea as its own. It was fairly obvious that as in the case of wages, labor would press for constantly increasing advantages. Demands would be made on industries with little ability to meet the demand, and steadily increasing demands on those more fortunate. The pattern of $100 monthly set by the steelworkers' strike decision would be only the beginning. It was quickly evident that this was the program. The United Automobile Workers' demand from General Motors was for pensions of $125 monthly, while President Walter Reuther of the U.A.W. was triumphantly announcing: "Brick by brick we are laying the foundation until our pension plan represents a return of $200 a month. Give us ten years and we will reach that goal."

The point of issue is not: Shall older workers be suitably pensioned? Industry, of its own volition, and long ago, decided on that course. The lesson now is: Will exorbitant pension demands by labor push this cause to a place where it is hopelessly inoperable or will industry be permitted to formulate and develop pension plans as generous as it is possible to maintain under any conditions of good times or bad?

The problems and rights of Canada's 150,000 Indians who live on reserves across the country shared the limelight in Ottawa last week with the sweat-soaked farmers and a determined group of fast talking Maritimeers.

The delegations from the prairies and the seaside area returned to their homes carrying government promises to study their respective proposals for higher final wheat payments and for construction of the long-sought Chignecto Canal. The Indians, given full backing by opposition benches, hung on to watch a red-faced government do an about-face and yield to their wishes.

Cause of the government's embarrassment was Citizenship Minister Harris' bill to amend the Indian Act. Heralded by the government as a new deal for Canada's Indians, the legislation ran into a storm of opposition criticism extending over several days and taking up almost six hours of debate in one day's sitting alone.

Second-Class Citizenship Many Indians, delegates to a convention of the North American Indian Brotherhood, looked down from the galleries as the debate unfolded. Some were dressed in native costumes. They nodded solemn approval as

Dear Editor:

Through the letter column of your paper the Wainwright Branch of the Red Cross wishes to thank all persons who contributed so generously in the recent campaign for funds. In all a total of $1,172.90 was donated by the people of Wainwright and community.

This is well above the original objective of $1,500, and we consider your support most gratifying. We also wish to thank those who gave so cheerfully in support of the Winnipeg Relief, in clothing, money and in unlimited service.

Any who may feel that they have been neglected or not called upon for donations and still wish to give, please contact the Secretary of the Wainwright Branch of the Red Cross.

Yours faithfully,
OLIVER G. GRIFFITHS,
Secretary of the Wainwright Branch.

opposition members, with an odd assist from the government side of the House, roundly criticized the legislation as not going far enough along the road to citizenship and urging that it be withheld until the Indians themselves had had a chance to study it. The Brotherhood convention joined the attack by sending a special delegation to see Mr. Harris and ask for postponement of the bill.

John Diefenbaker (Pc-Lake Centre) said the bill would make the Indian a "second-class citizen" by denying him recourse to the courts without the permission of the minister.

About Face John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) termed the bill "entirely negative" and said it apparently was "designed to govern an inferior and subordinate race and to keep them inferior and subordinate."

On Wednesday the government beat down an opposition attempt to give the bill a six-month "hold"—parliamentary device for killing unwanted legislation. The next day Mr. Harris, amid loud desk thumping from all sides of the Commons, said the bill was being with drawn until next session to give more time for its study by the Indians themselves.

He said the bill, providing for the drawing up of an Indian register for registration of all of predominant Indian blood, would be introduced again next year. The legislation also was aimed at clarification procedures regarding management, surrender and leasing of reserves and a uniform system of electing chiefs and councillors. Indian councils would have been given more power of internal government.

The Big Ditch Ever since Confederation, Maritime residents have talked of carving a sea way across the 11-mile wide Chignecto Isthmus near the Nova Scotia-New Brunswick boundary.

Horn Flies

The fly season is practically on us again, ready to take its toll of milk and beef unless measures are adopted to control the flies.

Horn flies are great disturbers of range cattle in the summer months. The adult horn fly is about one-half the size of the common housefly, is similarly colored although somewhat darker, and has a piercing head. The flies spend most of their adult life on the animals. Heavily infested cattle crowd together and refuse to eat. Large clusters of flies are often found on the backs, around the horns, and on the flanks of cattle. Estimates of 1,000 flies per animal are often made, and in several cases 10,000 flies per animal have been recorded. Female flies leave the animals only to lay eggs in fresh dung. The eggs hatch, the maggots cluster in and under the dung and mature and change into adult flies in nine to twelve days. Adult live about seven weeks and breeding is continuous throughout the season.

Horn flies due to their habit of riding on cattle, are rather easily controlled with a water suspension spray containing 5 per cent of wettable D.D.T. This dilution may be obtained by mixing four pounds of a 50 per cent wettable D.D.T. powder in 100 gallons of water, or two ounces of the powder in three gallons of water. Practical control can be obtained for a period of two to three weeks by wetting the flies with the mixture. About one-half gallon of spray per animal is usually sufficient. Spraying should be started when the flies appear and continued throughout the fly season. Three to four treatments will give good control and the later sprays may be more widely spread if the fly population is low.

The equipment necessary varies from a small compressed air sprayer for a few cattle to a power sprayer for a large herd. But whatever equipment is used, some attempt should be made to control horn flies as so to have happier cattle and more beef.

THEY TELL ME

The scene is set in the CBC's Toronto studios for another broadcast of They Tell Me, and just before the producer signals "go," commentator Claire Wallace and announcer Wilfred Glover discuss some last-minute script details. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 12:45 p.m. on CBW: 11:45

Pass The Spinach

A nutritionist, claiming that too many school-children suffer from malnutrition, puts part of the blame on their fathers.

After blasting mothers who don't find time to get out of bed in time to prepare breakfast for Junior he deals with the man who turns up his nose at various health-giving foods which he considers more nutritious than palatable.

We won't go into the question of the late-sleeping mothers. The evidence against them looks bad, but for all we know, they spend their nights trying to keep the baby quiet.

But there's another side to the nutritionist's case against the fathers, whom he accuses of influencing their offspring against some of the most vitamin-rich items on the menu.

We wonder if some of his criticism is based on the well-known theory that if Pop drowns a forkful of spinach or a spoonful of mush, somehow his grimace and asserts loudly that it tastes wonderful, the youngsters will clamor for second helpings of the stuff.

Maybe that works in some families, friend, but not many. Most of the children we know weren't born yesterday—if they were, nobody is feeding them any spinach.

We've seen fathers try that "my kid's wonderful" stunt and the result is always the same.

The children fix the poor parent with a pitying stare, probe the offending morsel delicately and holler for their dessert. Sometimes they even pass their plates across the table for Father to finish.

There are several remedies for malnutrition, such as a balanced diet, a bigger food budget or even a bit of child psychology.

But if it has to be psychology, let's be subtle about it. Play soft music, or keep the kids amused, or, if necessary, let the little one to his little chair and force the meal down his throat.

But let's not make a guinea pig out of Father. He has troubles enough.

Experts Prefer Cheaper-Priced London Styles

LONDON—As far as fashion is concerned, the tale of two cities this year seems to favor London rather than Paris.

Three hundred buyers from 32 countries attending Britain's Fashion Fair—right appeared to agree that British prices are lower than those prevailing in Paris.

Few suggest that London will seriously rival Paris for chic clothes in the upper-price ranges. But visitors to the two-week London show hailed a new flair and originality in the design of tailor-made suits, coats and dresses.

A general impression was that all-round values were 25 per cent better than last year in moderately-priced lines. Some trade executives predicted that prices for cheaper dresses would soon be back to pre-war levels.

One house showing low-price evening dresses promised the average price for its models will be five guineas (about $16.25). These models naturally would not include clothes based on Paris models or on the work of staff designers.

Changing Trends
Many Canadian and United States buyers placed orders. Mrs. Jane Harris of Montreal, who specializes in British goods, told reporters that fashion trends have changed.

"My customers are so keen on British goods now," she said, "that I have switched from one-third British and two-thirds domestic goods to 90-per-cent British."

Here's what some other buyers said: Harry Barton, managing director of a store in Adelaide, Australia: "Your clothes have got fair and chic in them. Paris is too expensive and sometimes too extreme."

Mona Levin, representing a Johannesburg store: "I intended to go to Paris but I couldn't improve on what I've bought here. Your prices are wonderful."

Britain's Board of Trade, sounding a similarly optimistic note, said everything seemed to go well this year.

Save Your Teeth The Sensible Way

Tooth decay can be reduced 50 to 60 per cent by the simple process of brushing the teeth immediately after eating. That is the conclusion of Dr. Charles W. Freeman, dean of North-western University's Dental School, and is based on the results of a two-year test conducted among 246 men and women students of five widely-separated colleges. Author William F. Merriam reports the finding of this extensive experiment in the lead article of The Reader's Digest for July.

For two years a test group of 233 students brushed their teeth with a 'neutral paste within ten minutes after eating; or, if brushing was inconvenient, merely rinsed their mouths with water. The other 213 students continued their regular habit of brushing their teeth night and morning. At the end of the first year the latter group had developed new cavities at a rate averaging 23 per person, while the incidence of new cavities in the test group averaged 53—a deduction of 68 per cent. At the end of the second year the test group had 33 per cent fewer cavities than the morning-and-night tooth brushers.

Back of this experiment was the desire to prevent the dental cavities caused by the tremendous consumption of sugar and other carbohydrates. Sugar, the article says, lodges between the teeth after eating, and is rapidly transformed into acid by the bacteria always present in the mouth. To some extent, saliva neutralizes the acid, but the neutralizing is inadequate for those who indulge in quantities of sweets.

The speed of the acid action on teeth varies with individuals, but with many it starts about three minutes after ingestion of sugar and continues until the saliva successfully counterattacks.

Brushing teeth night and morning "cleanses the teeth, sweetens the breath and leaves a pleasant taste, but does little to eliminate tooth decay," the article states. Dr. Leonard A. Forch, member of Northwestern's Dental School faculty and conductor of the test, cites his own experience. Previously in "constant trouble with dental cavities," he has not had a single tooth decay since 1937, when he adopted the practice of brushing or rinsing after each meal. His three children, aged 11 to 18, have averaged but one or two cavities each, far fewer than most children of their years.

Many Facilities Made Available To Cancer Patients By Society

One of the life saving services of the Canadian Cancer Society has the intriguing name of "the loan closet." From this store, room, sick-room supplies are sent out to cancer patients being treated at home. This is in addition to the dressings service, and it can provide a complete hospital room for cancer sufferers. Hospital beds, mattresses, overhead tables, sheets and pillows, hospital gowns, pneumatic jackets and wheelchairs are available. While research goes on seeking the cure for cancer—much of it on grants from the Cancer Society—the society does not forget the incurable.

In the past year, an Edmonton woman was found dying of cancer in almost destitute conditions. Her last weeks were made more comfortable in a temporary hospital room set up in her home by the cancer society.

This and other services are financed by an annual campaign for funds. After nine weeks of the campaign, nearly $53,000.00 has been collected.

Donations, and applications for cancer services can be sent to the Canadian Society at 1005 Jasper Avenue in Edmonton.

Too Many Blondes

EDMONTON—Magistrate McGuill knows how it is with a man's seat. A maid, caught speeding, a young man equipped with a $15 fine when he explained that he was chasing a car with two blondes in it. "What's a good enough reason," said the magistrate, "but don't follow any more blondes or you'll lose your license."

A scrawny Miss with a brace on her teeth hung around the desk of the librarian diffidently until the latter asked: "Is there any particular book you're trying to make up your mind to ask for?"

The scrawny one blushed and whispered: "Do you think I could borrow 'How to Buy'?"

The Week at Ottawa

Maritimers, was a pre-Confederation promise that helped induce Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island to become part of the Dominion.

In Ottawa last week the Maritimers were doing their best to get the old promises fulfilled.

A 40-man delegation made up of fishermen, farmers, businessmen, and civic officials—largest to invade Ottawa in 25 years—took the capital by storm. They threw a cocktail party for cabinet ministers and other members of parliament—in softness then up-then invaded Parliament Hill itself to present a brief to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Revitalize Economy

The brief, besides arguing the pre-Confederation promise side of the case, said the canal would revitalize the economy of the seaboard area and benefit Canadian transportation generally by chopping some 800 miles off the distance shipping now must travel around the eastern coastline.

Tentative estimates are that the big ditch would cost $100,000,000 if built on the scale considered by a 1921 Royal Commission—considerably more if built to meet present and future conditions.

Wheat Troubles

From the west came representatives of the prairie's 50,000-odd wheat farmers with a proposal that could mean a $300,000,000 headache for the federal treasury.

Headed by J. L. Phelps of Regina and big Carl Stimpfle of Edmonton, presidents of the Farmers' Unions of Saskatchewan and Alberta, respectively, the western delegation asked the government for a 25-cent-a-bushel final payment to farmers under the five-year wheat-board pool.

Available or distribution in the pool is about 30,000,000 bushels, which would allow a payment of five cents a bushel for the approximate 1,000,000,000 bushels the farmers delivered to the pool during the five years of its operation. The delegation asked Trade Minister Brown and Agriculture Minister Gardiner to have the government add another 20 cents a bushel. This would bring up the price the farmers received under the pool from $1.75 to $1.95 a bushel—the price Canada obtained for the last two years of the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement. To do it, the government would have to dip into the treasury to find another $200,000,000.

To back their claims, the wheat farmers said they were the only major group in Canada who, since the beginning of the Second World War, had not received a direct subsidy from the federal treasury.

They emphasized, however, that they were not asking for subsidies but only for "a just settlement in line with the terms of our contract."

Mrs. Mary Jordan Can Give Lessons In Happy Living

DENVER—Mrs. Marie McGill Jordan is a living lesson to the kind of folks who are afraid to really pitch in and do a heap of happy living.

At the age of 24 this 4-foot-10-inch woman has:

Enrolled in a Red Cross first aid class.

Recently completed her 10th rewrite of a novel entitled "Linda."

Figured out a remarkable series of closet callender and thereby erased the pain of a nagging rib injury.

Told local directors of the Y.W.C.A. that they're going to accept her as a pupil in one of their swimming classes—or else.

A few months ago Mrs. Jordan got out of bed during the night and walking across her bedroom tangled with the corner of her bureau. Next day her ribs weren't right and for weeks "there was a pretty bad hurting in them."

But one day she was hanging up a dress in her closet and for no particular reason she reached up and hooked her hands over the wooden bars that run the width of the closet. It felt good to the sore ribs. Very good. Now she hangs from the closet bar every day. And there's no more pain.

Took First Aid.

As soon as she was sure of her cure she went down to see the Red Cross people and enrolled in the first aid class.

"Don't think I'm here just to pass the time," she told her teacher, Ray

Shafter. "I intend to save at least one life—maybe more—before I'm finished. So I might as well find out the right way."

This from a woman born on a West Virginia farm only a few months after President Lincoln was assassinated.

For the last 14 years she's spent a great deal of time on an old model typewriter writing and polishing the aforementioned novel, "Linda," inspiration for which stemmed from a neighbor's new automobile. The neighbor failed to offer Mrs. Jordan a ride one very hot day when she was about.

On one occasion she remarked: "Mother I had a car; Linda said mustn't, I'd try sometimes to think of folks that hadn't."

As the novel progressed Linda becomes less preoccupied with machinery and does a lot of very readable thinking about the Lord and the weather.

On one occasion she remarked: "Mother I bet the Lord smiles when he lets down a day like this."

Mrs. Jordan says she likes to think of the Lord "letting down each day from Heaven for the people to enjoy. And if they just use up each day as he lets it down, there'd be a lot less worry and foolishness."

When her husband died in 1934 Mrs. Jordan moved from Cortez, Colo., to Denver. Now she lives in the home of an 80-year-old woman friend and together they manage the business of cooking and housecleaning. Sometimes when Mrs. Jordan is hanging from the bar in the closet her friend comes in and looks at her a little peculiarly. But Mrs. Jordan says it's worth it.

Bulbs Bring Profits In B.C. Stump Land

VANCOUVER—Stump land can raise a profitable crop, says H. A. Paver, if you know what—and what not—to plant.

Mr. Paver, who farms in the Bradner district of the Fraser Valley, favors bulbs. He settled on 30 acres of stump land 20 years ago. All the acreage was in bush "and there were no bulldozers then."

Today, 13 acres are cleared and in crop. His profit: well, Mr. Paver has one acre of daffodils and the alone nets him about $1,000 a year.

A book dictated by Marco Polo in prison was the most popular source of European knowledge of the far east for three centuries.

CATERPILLARS MUNCHING HALF-MILE PATH TO OTTAWA

Hordes of tent caterpillars are ravaging the trees of the Gatineau Valley north of Ottawa and are munching a path two miles long by half a mile wide toward the capital. Maths Cottrell holds a section of branch which contains a caterpillar in the bottom stage, at left. Development of caterpillars is shown at right. Cocoon stage will be built within the next two weeks will produce moths that will then lead to another invasion. Ottawa will probably be besieged by the "army" in spite of the counter-attack being waged now by millions of black flies, foes of the caterpillars. According to reports, the flies are hardly making a dent in the caterpillars.

Use Of Aircraft In Agriculture Spreads In The United States

WASHINGTON—The airplane is fast becoming one of American agriculture's major production tools.

For the last 14 years she's spent a great deal of time on an old model typewriter writing and polishing the aforementioned novel, "Linda," inspiration for which stemmed from a neighbor's new automobile. The neighbor failed to offer Mrs. Jordan a ride one very hot day when she was about.

Bulbs Bring Profits In B.C. Stump Land

VANCOUVER—Stump land can raise a profitable crop, says H. A. Paver, if you know what—and what not—to plant.

Mr. Paver, who farms in the Bradner district of the Fraser Valley, favors bulbs. He settled on 30 acres of stump land 20 years ago. All the acreage was in bush "and there were no bulldozers then."

Today, 13 acres are cleared and in crop. His profit: well, Mr. Paver has one acre of daffodils and the alone nets him about $1,000 a year.

Ottawa will probably be besieged by the "army" in spite of the counter-attack being waged now by millions of black flies, foes of the caterpillars. According to reports, the flies are hardly making a dent in the caterpillars.

For the last 14 years she's spent a great deal of time on an old model typewriter writing and polishing the aforementioned novel, "Linda," inspiration for which stemmed from a neighbor's new automobile. The neighbor failed to offer Mrs. Jordan a ride one very hot day when she was about.

On one occasion she remarked: "Mother I had a car; Linda said mustn't, I'd try sometimes to think of folks that hadn't."

As the novel progressed Linda becomes less preoccupied with machinery and does a lot of very readable thinking about the Lord and the weather.

On one occasion she remarked: "Mother I bet the Lord smiles when he lets down a day like this."

Mrs. Jordan says she likes to think of the Lord "letting down each day from Heaven for the people to enjoy. And if they just use up each day as he lets it down, there'd be a lot less worry and foolishness."

Our Greatest Pleasure

A small paper called "The Husker" with a huge distribution in Vancouver has called for an essay from readers about the daily activity which gives them the greatest pleasure. Suggested subjects were hobbies, playing with the kids, flirting, reading, kissing your wife, or maybe even someone's class, cooking or talking over the back fence.

That set us to thinking what our greatest daily pleasure was and we found that we had a long list. First there's the pleasure of getting to work in the morning and taking a whack at the day's job and at the other end of the day there's the pleasure of getting home and forgetting about the job and day's work over the evening paper and a half hour's relaxation before supper.

More than half an hour would be too much, less than half an hour doesn't give us enough time to savor the sensation of oppressive daily chores dropping away and the enjoyment of a evening ahead with which one can do anything.

There's the pleasure of walking down the street and knowing practically everyone we meet. There's the feeling of satisfaction when a clerk says, "in off the street to tell us the shoes we've been wanting have come in."

There's the hilarity of the joke one of the merchants tells us as he lures us by wraps up a parcel. There's the fun of writing an ad with and for the businessman who has a really good twist of idea comes to mind. There's the excitement of a sudden fire call that turns everyone out of doors to see a small and non-momentous rubbish fire.

There's the familiarity of the scene when the morning train pulls in on time and seeing people scurry wildly down to post letters that must go. Sometimes there's the fun of racing some of them to that train.

There's the pleasure of picking up a good meaty story that will be good for a half a column of news. There's the pride in going to a meeting where a good round job of work gets planned. There's the possibility that someone will come into the office with a shoo-sho potato or funny shaped egg that's good for a laugh. There's the day that the news comes rolling in and everything goes right. There's the satisfaction of watching a crew of volunteers work on a community project.

But for a good essay on daily pleasure we can think of nothing better than the title, "Living in Nanton."

—Nanton News.

Seaforth Students Learn Agriculture in School Garden

SEAFORTH, Ont.—Some students at Seaforth High School have volunteered to work in the school's garden during the summer vacations. And there's not an apple tree in sight.

The voluntary crew is the result of a back-to-the-land movement at the school designed to provide a more even balance between town and farm young people.

It's no small scheme, either. Principal L. P. Plumstead foresees the day when the school will have its own tractor, barn, poultry, etc., etc., and be able to supply sufficient food to support a restaurant for noon-hour meals at low cost.

Five acres of land have been purchased adjoining the school, and 200 students have planted trees, shrubs, vegetables, flowers, and wheat—practically anything that will grow.

Mr. Plumstead is a city boy himself.

ARMY AND CIVILIANS HOLD BRITISH COLUMBIA FLOOD LINE

A scene made familiar by Manitoba's floods last month is this one of soldiers building dykes to halt flood waters. The place is Agassiz, British Columbia.

but is a vigorous champion of rural youth. To give the farm boys a chance he organized a school-boy plowing match last year.

"The match served two purposes," he said. "It gave rural students who weren't familiar with football a chance to make a touchdown in another field, and we got our five acres of farmland plowed for free."

Leveling influence
Agriculture teacher Lloyd Morrison gives his idea of the plan.

"Too many farm people don't pay enough attention to flowers," he says, "and too many town people are shallow on vegetables."

"This course could be a leveling influence. Henceforth, no student will graduate from our high school without knowing something about turnips and bleeding hearts."

Each student is given at least one project each year, such as a home decoration plan, seed plots or poultry raising. There are tractor and baby beef clubs for the boys and the girls are not forgotten, with a garden club established especially for them.

Cost of the whole project is practically negligible. Big output was $600 for the garden. Free seed is obtained from the Ontario Agricultural College. From the department of lands and forests, the school has received 800 evergreen seedlings. Local residents have donated hundreds of perennials.

Most of the townfolk seem to like the idea, too. The school has considered buying a tractor, but implement dealers refuse to sell and donate equipment whenever it's needed.

Volunteer Labor To Save $6000. On School

Co-operative effort is expected save $6,000 in the building of their new two-roomed addition.

Outside finish will be installed. The new building, which is 16 x 42 feet, with full basement, is now well under way. Estimated by architects to cost about $14,000. It is planned to complete the building with the help of one hired foreman and a couple of experienced helpers, resulting in the saving mentioned.

Local help has been coming out very nicely, starting with a burst of tractor work for the excavation and a turnout of forty men to run the cement. The number of volunteers per day for the balance of the construction work will be somewhat lower, due to the fact that it is difficult to work with such a large group on construction work. For a list of donors, who are acting as foremen, was chosen by the School Board after having inspected a number of jobs he had completed, including schools and churches.

The purpose of the building is to provide accommodation for the pupils being bused in as the bus routes are extended from Chauvin.

It is hoped to have the building completed in time for occupancy at the beginning of the fall term.

After the wieners, everyone joined in singing choruses and in giving their testimonies of what the Lord meant to them in their own personal lives.

A delightful afternoon was spent at Malou Lake, when the LaPearl school children, parents and friends gathered for their closing picnic. The afternoon went quickly as ball games, swimming, and eating the delicious lunch came in swift succession, all ably conducted by the school teacher Miss Frances Pavey.

All the treats were provided by the district.

COWS DON'T KNOW ABOUT THE STRIKE

With no market for their milk due to a strike of milk truckers, farmers around Pittsburgh, Pa., are feeding it to the pigs rather than see it go to waste. The milk famine nearest a crisis in a seven-county western Pennsylvania area where mothers, starting for the health of their babies, begged the drivers and dairies to settle their dispute.

Chauvin School Hold Picnic At Salt Lake

The school season ended on Friday, June 30th, with a very enjoyable picnic held at Salt Lake. It was a school day affair—the nicest school day of the year, for it began at 9:00 a.m. and ended at 3:30 p.m.

The school buses and parents with cars transported everyone interested. The day began with free swimming until 11 a.m. Then ice cream (almost all they could eat) was passed out. Lunch followed—a very enjoyable one I must say. James on the beach followed this, then water games. The children really enjoyed the peanut scramble in the water.

A huge box of candy, donated by Mr. Harry Haasli, was then the treat for everyone there. Thank you Mr. Haasli for your generous contribution.

About 3 p.m. everyone again packed into cars and buses all very tired but well sunburned. That ended the 1949-50 school year at Chauvin.

The teachers wish to thank every parent who contributed to the day's success. Any lost articles may be located at Spencer's place.

Have a fine holiday children and parents, enjoy them to your utmost for you lose them again daily in September while we, the teachers, again enjoy the task of making each one a fine citizen.

These Are Few Of The Reasons Why GMC Trucks Are Better Than Others

• THE FOUR-SPEED SYNCHROMESH TRANSMISSION
Standard on 1-Ton models, optional on ½-Ton and ¾-Ton models. The four-speed synchromesh transmission, with its silent speedy shift along with the heavier construction, has proven to be a real money-saver for truck operators. To owners—synchromesh promises reduced wear, less lost time and lower maintenance costs. To the driver—the four-speed synchromesh transmission means less driving strain, easier shifts and quicker acceleration in emergencies.

• REAR AXLE WITH HYPOID GEARS
Gives a maximum of strength and durability. The ½-Ton units are equipped with semi-floating rear axle, combining torque-tube and Hotchkiss drive. The ¾- and 1-Ton units are equipped with a heavy-duty full-floating rear axle with Hotchkiss drive.

• BALL-BEARING STEERING
The recirculating ball-type steering gear provides greater capacity, strength and durability. All gears are rated for their steering loads and to give great driving ease. The large 15-inch, three-spoke steering wheel provides easy control with a minimum of effort.

• THREE UNIVERSAL JOINTS
"Spicer" type, with modern needle bearings. Designed for extra long, trouble-free life.

• CHASSIS AND CAB
Designed and engineered throughout to meet the requirements of truck operators whose need is for hauling capacity anywhere between the light delivery and the medium duty types. These sturdy products of GMC's exclusive commercial vehicle plant embody the most modern and gruelling truck design and are built to withstand the most gruelling truck service.

• THREE-SPEED SYNCHROMESH TRANSMISSION
Standard on all ½- and ¾-Ton models. It is operated by a gearshift lever located on steering column. The helical carburized gears and anti-friction bearings for forward speed gears are designed especially for truck operation.

• PERFECTED HYDRAULIC TRUCK BRAKES
They have additional advantages to those of hydraulic brake actuation. These advantages result from the exclusive double-articulated brake-shoe mechanism which assures positive action and full contact of the self-aligning shoes with the drums.

"BAN SHORTS" MOVEMENT CAUSING OTTAWA CONTROVERSY

Demand in Ottawa that a ban be placed on wearing of shorts by girls in Ottawa streets has the controversial pot boiling. Roman Catholic organizations are spearheading anti-shorts drive. Official eye of Special Constable J. W. Renshaw looks at Sally Soudard's shorts, at left. He'll have a busy job if restrictive by-law is passed. Champion of the anti-shorts movement is Controller Dan McCann, above, who says that some of the shorts being worn around the streets are "downright immodest." Many are fighting demand.

A POPULAR PASTIME

"Dining out" is a pastime that has become extremely popular in Canada in recent years and Canada's restaurant industry has reflected this popularity in its rapid growth and development. There are many fine cafes and restaurants in all areas of the country and patrons can help keep them clean and sanitary by insisting on clean food clean service and clean surroundings.

ICE CREAM COOL

There's nothing more appetizing these hot summer days than a dish of creamy, delicious ice cream. Nutritionists tell us that in addition to being a "first-class" cooler-offer, ice cream is Just loaded with ingredients the body needs—and at the same time it lacks the high sugar content of many confections and soft drinks.

TANNING IN TIME

Sunshine is wonderful and a fine, even coat of tan looks so vigorous and healthy. But acquiring the tan can be a painful and dangerous experience if the elementary rules of safety are ignored. Take your sunshine in small doses until the tan begins to show. Then you can afford longer exposures without risk of painful burns.

On The Control Of Couch Grass

The control of Couch Grass or Quack Grass presents one of the toughest weed problems in Western Canada. Intensive cultivation is still the only effective way of controlling large infestations of this creeping, deep-rooted, perennial grass weed. A brief description of two common but distinctly different cultural methods of fighting Couch Grass is presented here.
